The red lines on the 2D project represent the half of each part. The red lines are placed to help position the graphics.